Generally, the outline looks good and BGE can support it.

In Section 1.1, add a new (c) that would say something like:

(c) A statement that the parties can only use the the information for the specific purpose stated.

In Section 1.3, add a statement about whether the non-disclosure survives the termination of the agreement. The agreement may terminate, but that doesn't necessarily mean that you can suddenly start talking about the protected information.

In Section 10, add a "Certification" statement that says that the signatory is duly authorized to sign for the party, or that each individual who would be looking at the information has to sign the agreement.

Thanks in advance for your consideration and my apologies for the late notice.
